Crazed by Sickness, Hon. Francis T. Roots, Suicides in Connersville

FATHER OF BIG BOOM THERE

Prominent Man in State Politics and Financial Circles has a Horrible Ending

Hon, Francis T. Roots, the father of many industries and improvements in the city of Connersville, committed suicide in his home at that place today by shooting himself through the temple with a revolver.

About five weeks ago he suffered severe attack of the grip and it left him mentally unbalanced and a complete nervous wreck. Being the active head of several financial institutions, the family directed a few days ago that his holdings be disposed of and Mr. Roots was sent to a private sanitarium in Battle Creek, Michigan. He did not seem to improve there and was dissatisfied, continually asking to be returned home, and Saturday the request was granted. This morning he took a walk accompanied by his wife and returned to the house about 10:30 o'clock. His wife then went to call-on a neighbor and fifteen minutes later, as his son Clarence Roots, was entering the home he heard a shot fired in an upstairs bedroom, and rushing to the scene found bed with a fatal wound in his temple, and a pistol at his side told the story. Mr. Roots death cast a gloom over Connersville and the county of Fayette for he was a beloved and valued citizen. He was prominent in State financial circles and in Republican years of age.

Emory Cassel's Tale of Highway Robbery Discredited by Coroner.

FEW UNEXPLAINED FACTS

In the Mysterious Murder of Thomas Mills Created Suspicion Against His Companion.

Owen County Agitated Over Cruel Murder Which Possesses Some Strange Features.

Quincy, Ind., Feb. 10.-Emory Cassell of Indianapolis is charged with the murder of Thomas Mills by formal warrant based upon the result of Coroner Chenowith's investigation. It was Cassell who drove into Quincy Saturday with Mills's dead body by his side, and exhibiting wounds upon his own head, declared himself and his companion victims of a mysterious assault on the highway a few miles south of this place, and which ended in Mills being shot to death.

Fearing mob violence if Cassell was allowed to remain within the county boundaries, Sheriff Slinkard last night took his prisoner to Indianapolis, where he was placed in the Marion county jail.

Mills was a wealthy farmer and stockman living at Eminence. Cassell, a clerk in an Indianapolis store, said he had interested Mills in the purchase of a drug store and they were driving to Millgrove to examine into the matter. Cassell says they were assaulted and robbed. The first known of the tragedy was when the horse brought the buggy with the two victims into Quincy.

The two were about a mile beyond Quincy, Cassell said, when a voice behind them commanded them to wait. The buggy was inclosed with storm curtains. Cassell had started to look out when he received a stunning blow on the head. It appeared to him, he said, that he was struck with a large black object. After that he said he knew not what happened until he awoke three miles farther on, to find Mills dead at his side with two deep wounds, one in the side of his head and the other in the back. Cassell's one thought was to reach assistance. He turned the horse and, on a dead run, the animal brought the two men

Indianapolis, Feb. 10.-That Governor J. Frank Hanly may become a candidate for the United States senate at the next session of the legislature is a story that is going the rounds of the party workers in the northern part of the state. The Marion News-Tribune, a Republican organ in Grant county, declares that Republicans there resent what they regard as the "unwarranted interference" of Governor Hanly in their local campaign. The News-Tribune says that the suspicion that has prevailed throughout Indiana for several months that Governor Hanly will make the race against Senator Hemenway, has asconviction. the Indiana railroad commission have handed down a decision that railroads in this state may haul coal to each other at a lower rate than is charged other consumers. C. V. McAdams, the other member of the board, filed a dis senting opinion. Chairman Hunt, who wrote the opinion, says that during the investigation of the question it was found that the low rates between the roads had not increased the general rate for the public. On the contrary he said, it has lowered it. He declar ed that the Indiana railroads would not use Indiana coal if they were com pelled to pay a higher freight rate and that under the present conditions the roads consume over a million tons annually of Indiana coal. This business. he said, is important not only to the Indiana mine owners, but to the large number of men employed in the mines. He quoted from several authorities to show that such discrimination in rates as laid down in the opinion, are per

Surprised and Elated over Rushville's Victory

Local basket ball fans are discussing the contest between the Rushville and Richmond basket ball teams at Rushville, says the Shelbyville News. Richmond was expected to be an easy victor but Rushville displayed unusual strength and carried off the honors. The final score was 33 to 17. The Quakers were completely off their stride in the first half, which resulted 17 to 5 in Rushville's favor. In the final round Carrington of the visitors caged quited a number of goals but it was too late. Williams and Bankert played a star game for Rushville.

THE WATERMELON.

Africa Is the Original Home of This Luscious Fruit.

The humorists always associate the African with the watermelon, assuming that the taste of the colored man for his favorite dainty arises from his life in the southern states, where the melon vine grows like a weed.

As a fact, however, the African taste quented them, so the two men did not for the watermelon is hereditary. The vine is a native of Africa, where it is met the less they found to say to one found wild in the great central plains of the continent, and has also been cultivated for many ages.

HORNET SENTINELS.

It Would Seem That These Insects Keep Guard Over the Nests.

Is a hornets' nest guarded by senti-

nels, after the manner of ant hills? It is not so easy to decide, for their private habits do not invite familiar approach. But some experiments seemed to point that way. No noises, however near or strident, had the least effect upon the workers. Blow on divers instruments as loudly and shrilly as I would, they poured in and out of the gate or labored on the walls, intent wholly upon their own affairs. But at the slightest jar upon the window or shutter, out flew a bevy of irate insects and flung themselves against the wire window screen with an angry "bump" that showed how good was their intention at least to defend their home. It was always so. A squad of workers, free and ready for aggressive duty, seemed to be lurking near the gate, prompt to sally forth upon alarm. Even at night a few kept | near by, and, although their port had lost its vicious swing and they moved i about with sluggish pace, like sleepy | % watchmen, as doubtless they were, gresented. Office 240 N. Main St. they left upon the observer the impression that they were on sentinel service, in which the community was never lacking .- Dr. H. C. McCook in Harper's Magazine.

WHICH STORY DO YOU WANT?

The Daily Republican wishes to ascertain which of the following stories is desired for the next serial to be published after the present story, "The Fighting Chance," is finished. The story receiving the most requests will be printed next and the other stories in order of standing. Send us your preference by card, phone or personal call before February 17th. Following is a list of a few of the stories we can secure for publication in the Republican.

The Mystery

By Stewart Edward White and Samuel Hopkins Adams. To the worth of this story there are two substantial tributes-first, that it was run as a serial by the London Sphere, a publication noted for its discrimination in the selection of serials and which rarely uses an American story; second, that "The Mystery" was one of the "good sellers" of 1907. This is a story of mystery and adventure on new lines. The style is graphic and forceful as the "copy" of a skillful reporter of an important news event. The part of the hero, unfolds gradually until he stands revealed as the rarest combination of whimsical humor and cool courage ever presented, perhaps in fiction, The narrative, which conveys the impression of reality, not fiction, is swift and alluring, holding the interest of the reader as with hooks of steel.

His Courtship

By Helen R. Martin, author of "Tillie: A Mennonite Maid." In the main this story is a record of the adventures of a young Doctor of Philosophy, who conspires to play the humble role of hired hand at Mr. Morningstar's farm boarding house that he may have opportunity for serious and scholarly meditations and avoid the blandishments of fascinating young lady boarders. The resulting complications make a story as rich in humor, as provocative of laughter as any that has been written in recent years. The characters are as interesting as one's intimate friends.

The Plow Woman

By Eleanor Gates, author of "The Biography of a Prairie Girl." A story of the winning of the west; of the ways and wiles of the savage Sioux; of brave soldiers and daring frontiersmen; of a stubborn hate coming down from the cival war; of love tender, brave and true. He who reads shall know that a tale of Dakota of thirty years ago may kindle and inspire as much as any story of times remote; that the says of romance are near, not far off. The narrative begins quietly and rises steadily in interest to a climax as absorbing and inspiring as has been presented in any novel or drama, old or new.

Richard the Brazen

By Cyrus Townsend Brady, author of 'The Southerner," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc., [and Edwad Peple, author of "A Broken Rosary," "The Prince Chap," etc. In "Richard the Brazen" we put before the reader a knight errant worthy of the best days of chivalry, though he is of the present, and we find him in the garb of a cowboy. The superb, courage with which he rescues from certain death a young woman whom he had never before seen, and the reckless daring with which he risks his reputation in attempt to win this woman under an assumed name, will appeal strongly to every lover of romance and admirer of courage. How Richard prospered in his enterprise under difficulties which would discourage any but the most stout hearted we leave the reader to find out, and a most delightful pastime it will prove.

The King of Diamonds

By Louis Tracy, author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," etc. Gripping the reader fast with its tale of the astounding transformation, in one day, of a ragged, London waif into the possessor of incalulable wealth, this story by Louis Tracy measures up fully to the standard of this romancer's other popular tales. In the unfolding of the story he depicts not merely the change in the hero's material circumstances, but the interesting developement of his character. The stirring adventures in which Philip Anson became embroiled by reason of his suddenly acquired riches, literally sent to him from heaven, his loyalty to the girl friend of his childhood and his manly devolement with Mr. Tracy's well known skill."

Red Saunders

By Henry Wallace Phillips. This is the famous story of Red Sanders, big Red, tough Red of the plains and mines. We shall follow this expansive man through his days of toughness and sinfulness up to the great day of his life, the day that shall bring the metamorphosis of Red. This trumpeter will not give the story away by indicating how this transformation shall come about—whether through the remorse or repentance of Red, his conviction of sin, his fear of the damnation of the wicked, his yearning for the peace that"passeth understanding, or whether it shall be the love of woman that shall bring this giant to his knees and make him as a little child. The trumpeter will only promise that this conversion of Red shall be one of the most interesting and delicious episodes in all fiction, which the reader will enjoy and doubtless remember through all the years of his life.

THE SENSIBLE COUCH CURE

There are kinds of cough remedies which are as bad as the coughs they are intended to cure. They stop the coughs sometimes, but they do it by doing just what a cough cure should not do and that is to dry up the secretions and to strifle the cough by means of opiates. A real cough cure should stimulate the secretions, heal the inflamed surface and cure by removing the cause.

> The citizens of Union county are not discouraged, however, because nothing official has been done on either

Regarding the proposed line through Franklin county the Brookville American says: "From a reliable source we have learned that the Cincinnati and Indianapolis electric line will not be extended east during the present year. It is also known that the Liberty route has not been definitely agreed upon and a little work new by persons interested in the welfare of Brookville and Franklin county might ultimately result in the road connecting Cincinnati and Indianapolis by way of Brookville and Harrison. This is the shortest route and has not the disadvantage of being paralleled by other large passenger carrying reads."
